Word from The Chair

It's amazing to look back on how KHF started and how far we've come over these past 15 years...

Some of you remember that in 2004, the National Social Health Insurance Fund bill was heavily debated in parliament and was sent for presidential ascent which it never received. This bill threatened to increase the cost of doing business and potentially cripple the Kenyan health system that has been built by both the public and private sector. The unified voice of the private health sector was absent, and we decided that something had to be done. The seven KHF founding members decided to act, inching along relentlessly, advocating for changes to the NSHIF bill. It eventually took an adjusted form that majority of the stakeholders were satisfied with enabling the movement towards UHC. This now is part of the Big 4 agenda being led by President Uhuru Kenyatta's administration. This success in the formative stages of KHF gave us the launching pad we needed.

We started with just seven founding members and our current membership stands at 200. Each member believes in the cause of influencing policy to create a more enabling environment, promoting affordable, accessible, quality healthcare for all. Since the beginning of my term in 2015, our membership has grown at an average rate of 20% per annum. We have seen membership funds grow, allowing us to do more policy and advocacy work. Our annual revenue has multiplied seven fold since 2015. This means we're doing something right.

In addition to membership, partners continue to engage KHF to carry out projects that improve overall health for communities within the counties, reaching the grassroots. We had the FUNZOKenya project known as Afya Elimu Fund (AEF), in partnership with IntraHealth International, which started an affordable loan system for health workers. This inspired young people, most of whom were from hard-to-reach areas, to become healthcare workers and go back to serve their own communities.

As of December 31st, 2020, AEF had supported 35,895 students at a total USD 25.8 M with major contributions from HELB and USAID. KHF expanded the private sector partnership notably, from the Standard Chartered Bank, I & M Bank, The Family Group Foundation and Rattansi Educational Trust. Out of the total AEF beneficiaries, 11,878 students have already graduated.

KHF is also a leading partner in the Multi-Stakeholder Partnership (MSP) project with Maltesers International, which enabled us to enhance the auxiliary health workers association, addressing the needs of health cadres that have been ignored for too long, but yet are essential to our health system, such as community health workers, emergency medical technicians, and health records officers.

In the areas of policy and advocacy, KHF has engaged with 4 different ministers of health since our inception. We have institutionalized the Ministerial Stakeholders Forum model, which enables us to follow through on the agenda items that are important to the private sector. Quarterly MSF remains the apex engagement organ that drives appropriate changes and allows us to influence and constructively engage MOH and the counties.

Through this mechanism, we have been able to effectively engage MOH and other ministries to reduce costs of healthcare and improve quality. For example, we worked with MOH to remove VAT on raw materials used for pharmaceutical manufacturing in Kenya, which dramatically dropped the cost of local production of medicines. We have also advocated for and supported the World Bank Project on harmonizing the regulatory boards to enable them to working together to perform joint inspections of private sector facilities, helped to raise their standards, and foster a more amicable relationship that is no longer punitive, but focused on enabling compliance through capacity building and training. This directly improves access to healthcare because there are more quality facilities across the country that are in operation.

As KHF, we have not limited our involvement to our national borders. We have been a true leader in the region and on the continent, helping many other countries to follow our model through our relationships within East Africa and beyond. We have created strong business and knowledge links that allow us to open up regional markets for our members.

All of our work and progress gave us a solid foundation. Never before was this more obvious than in the past year and a half when we were required to respond to the greatest health crisis of a generation in the COVID-19 pandemic. We were very well positioned to respond quickly and effectively through PPP, not only for tests and treatment, but also as we move forward for vaccine rollout and work towards achieving herd immunity. The MOU that spells out clearly the role of the private sector in accelerating vaccinations in Kenya, which was approved last week, is a turning point to providing safety for Kenya and also opening up the Kenyan economy to save lives and livelihoods. I extend my appreciation to the private sector team that worked tirelessly on this process with the KEPSA leadership to enable us reach this stage. I am confident that this MOU will open up more supply channels and hopefully see more vaccines come into the country.

I want to thank the many individuals who have played leadership roles in KHF over the years. I'm happy to say that our current board is 50% women, and the entire board has done a fantastic job leading alongside me. The six strong committees at KHF, through wide participation of membership, continues to provide us evidence-based policy position papers that enable us to shape the health ecosystem with the private lens perspective. I urge all of you to continue giving your support and time to these committees. So much of what we've achieved would not have been possible without the vibrant involvement of the many board members that I've worked with throughout these years. I do also want to extend my special gratitude to the strong lean secretariat led by our CEO Dr. Anastasia Nyalita together with the other staff members.

Today is a day to both look back and look forward. I'm grateful for the opportunity to celebrate all we have accomplished in the past 15 years. We can be very proud. But I also want to look forward, to remember that, although we have accomplished much, there is so far to go. Kenya does need a well-functioning stronger private health sector, and it is our job as a federation to ensure that as members and partners we continue to build this step by step, year by year. We can this and we will do this, as together we are stronger.

Dr. Kanyenje Gakombe

Committee Leadership

Our membership being diverse is clustered into six (6) thematic working committees where members with different expertise work together towards the common KHF vision of creating an enabling environment that supports quality and affordable healthcare for all.

As the voice of the private health sector, KHF ensures members are constantly engaged in policy discussions. To ensure this happens effectively the federation builds the capacity of member organizations around the area of policy development and disseminate new government policies to ensure members are kept abreast of what is happening. This is done through policy briefs and issue papers produced through the committee meetings discussions.

The committee discussions are then integrated to the larger KHF bi-monthly members meetings from where consent is given and different agendas are thereafter tabled to various Advocacy forums.
